ଉତ୍କଳ ଦୀପିକା

We have much pleasure to announce that the Hon'ble the Raja Shaheb of Kanika has given an Ambulance car to the Ambulance corps and his Rani shaheba has also subscribed Rs1000, to Lady Hardinge's war fund. Such munificiences speak for themselves.

His Lordship the Chief Justice of Bihar and Orissa paid a visit to the firm of the gold smith babu Radhagobind Roy on wednesday evening. This is no small honour to Babu Radhagobind and speaks a good deal about the urbanity of our Chief Justice. The show rooms were very decently furnished and decorated. Throughout Orissa the gold smiths as a class have not any very enviable reputation, but we can say babu Radhagobind has been doing a good deal to remove that impression.

The Honourable the Chief Justice and the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sherfuddin at Cuttack.

In our last issue we informed our readers and countrymen that his Lordship the chief justice was anxious to consider any suggestion that may be made to him regarding the changes in the High court rules framed by his Lordship. We do not know whether any member of the bar had any talk with his Lordship regarding this.

We think that the first and foremost inconvenience which arises out of the new arrangement consequent on the establishment of the High court at Patna and the Circuit Court at Cuttack is the want of any arrangement whereby the accused can be readily enlarged on bail. The Dist. Judge is the ex-officio Registrar of the Circuit Court and that he has been empowered to grant bail but from what we see and what we expect in the natural course of events we can safely lay down the general proposition that such an arrangement in the majority of cases is bound to meet with the discontent of the people who are affected thereby. Very often the accused will have to appeal against the order of the Sessions Judge and can the Sessions Judge come to a very different finding when he finds himself sitting as the Registrar of the circuit court. Naturally the Sessions Judge will be inclined to support his own view and the accused will find himself in a difficulty in the matter of bail. It may be that the order of the Sessions Judge will ultimately be upheld by the High Court but then it will be the satisfaction of the people that they had tried their luck in the High court. There is another aspect of the question and it is this that parties have to bear double the expence and experience double the difficulty under the present system. Suppose an accused prefers an appeal to the Hon'ble High Court or moves the Hon'ble High court to exercise powers in its revisional jurisdiction; what is he to do under the present arrangement? He first moves the Registrar of the Circuit court. Suppose he does not admit the appeal or revision and so consequently refuses bail. The papers are then to be put up before the Hon'ble Judges of the High court. As the accused is undergoing the sentence he comes to Patna to move the Hon'ble High court for admission and bail. The accused then experiences the trouble, difficulties and expenses at Cuttack and again at Patna. Cannot this procedure be simplified and the accused's troubles and expenses minimised. Our suggestion in the matter is that the accused, if he prefers the appeal or revision petition, be enlarged on a provisional bail for a week or so if the Registrar of the Circuit court be allowed to try his luck at Patna. We do not know what will be the legal aspect of the question. But we know this much that the circuit court is a new thing and to meet the new circumstances His Lordship the Hon'ble chief Justice may make new arrangements in consultation with the Government. As for the keeping of an independent Registrar for the circuit court at Cuttack we think His Lordship's attention has been attracted to the question and His Lordship might have given his consideration to the subject.

The next question that we would like to draw His lordship's attention to is the enrolment of competent pleaders practising at the District Court as Vakeels of the Circuit Court. In a vernacular article we discussed the subject and we suggested that competent pleaders might be admitted as Vakeels after a regular examination. His Lordship has been at Cuttack for a [illegible] and His Lordship might have noticed the paucity of local Vakeels. In our opinion the same considerations which induced the Government to establish the Circuit Court would induce His Lordship to facilitate the enrolment of competent pleaders as vakeels of the Circuit Court. The Dist Judge of Cuttack is the Ex-officio Registrar of the Circuit court and before him petitions for admissions of appeals and for exercise of revisional powers are moved and we don't understand why the pleaders who practise before him as Dist. Judge should not, after an examination, be allowed to practise before him as Ex-officio Registrar. We understand that Government was approached on the subject and that the reply of the Government was that the Hon'ble the chief Justice has full powers to settle the question. Hence His Lordship's attention is drawn to this. Our third suggestion to His Lordship is the revision of the holiday list of the Patna High court so far as Orissa is concerned. In a vernacular article we pointed out that some of the holidays now observed are quite unnecessary while the number of days observed for other holidays is quite insufficient. There are again festivals for which the courts should be closed but as a matter of fact it is not done, we hope His Lordship will consult local bodies of people and in consultation with local Associations and with the recommendation of the Dist. Judge revise the holiday list.
